Highlands Assn. Pained By Fern Canyon Project

Preliminary plans for subdividing 105 acres of Fern Canyon into 86 one-acre building sites agitated members of the Carmel Highlands Association last night.

Further ruffling of the minds of Highlands residents occurred when subdivider Allan Allamprese told the audience, which overflowed the fire house meeting hall, he plans to redecorate four dwellings

Yesterday (March 2) we received from city hall a proclamation by Mayor John S. Chitwood, that Wednesday, February 24, 1960, shall be Admiral Nimitz Day in Carmel.

According to the proclamation, the admiral was 75 years old on that day, "and whereas, Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz has distinguished himself and the arms of the United States by his leadership in time of war and his example in time of peace; and whereas, it is fitting and proper that formal recognition should be given on this occasion, in order that the respect and appreciation of his fellow citizens might be known to Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz; now therefore, do I, John S. Chitwood, Mayor of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, California, proclaim Wednesday 24 February, 1960 as Nimitz Day in recognition of this anniversary."

Commander Chitwood (U.S.N. Ret.) we regret to report that your runner service from city hall has not distinguished itself in this matter.

Ruth Thornburg's weekly column, Librarian's Notebook, is never just a listing of the library's new book acquisitions. She's a quick one with the felicitous phrase.

Describing Leonard Bernstein's The Joy of Music in this week's column (page 7) she says: "He enjoys all music from long-hair to crew cut."

Remind me to pay my membership dues to California Roadside Council, 12 Garces Drive, San Francisco. Perhaps you would like to join. The dues are $6.00 per year. You receive the bulletin, which tells you when to write which legislator about what conservation issue. Billboard control has been their special effort for years. Their current hero is Carmel's California State Senator Fred Farr, for reasons easily understood.

The bulletin this quarter contains an optimistic report, which is not always the case:

"Monterey County's planning Commission was petitioned recently by outdoor advertising interests to amend the County Zoning Ordinance, lowering the standards of billboard control. The occasion was the approaching deadline for removal of non-conforming billboards. Though unsuccessful, by last report, this attempt to weaken the ordinance illustrates the need for constant vigilance. The Monterey County Ordinance is so excellent in its regard for roadside ap-

Bicycle Rodeo Saturday At Sunset Field

Carmel's annual bicycle rodeo will be held at Sunset School playground on Saturday morning starting at 9:00 o'clock. The recreation department, assisted by the police department, will conduct the event. Prizes will be donated by the Kiwanis Club.

This week children from grade 2 up have taken true-false safety examinations. Saturday morning each bicycle must pass a safety inspection and the police will issue compulsory city licenses to owners.

Feature of the bicycle rodeo is the slow race. The winner is the rider who takes the longest time to complete the course without losing control of the bicycle or touching the ground.

Board Asks Teachers To Pare Down New Salary Schedule

The school board held a two-hour study session with the teachers' salary schedule committee last night, looked at the proposed $729,920 payroll that would result and asked the committee to talk it over again with the teachers, with the idea of eliminating the two highest brackets in the schedule. If this year's salary schedule were retained, the pay roll would increase $16,000 next year through automatic salary raises. If the new salary schedule, as presented last night, were adopted, in addition to the $16,000, $57,707, would have to be found in the budget, or a total of $73,907 more for teachers' salaries next year.

An administrators' salary schedule was presented with increases proportionate to the proposed teachers' raises.

The classified employees will be in with their's later.

Guy Wires And Three Trees On Tour Agenda

City councilmen will meet on Tuesday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock in City Hall, then proceed on their monthly tree tour meeting. Five requests will be considered.

The Pacific Gas and Electric Company has asked permission to remove two pines on the south side of Eighth Avenue between Junipero and Mission Streets because the trees interfere with P.

Anyone For German? Mosaics?

In answer to request for a German language class, the Carmel Adult School is now pre-registering for this class which would meet on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Frederick Baldus will be the instructor. He is a member of the Army Language School German Department and also teaches English for New Americans at the Carmel Adult School.

To pre-register phone the Carmel Adult School—MA 4-1821, Monday through Thursday evenings between 7:00 and 10:00 o'clock.

A class in Mosaics is to be offered by the Carmel Adult School on Wednesday evenings at 7:00 o'clock in Sunset School Shop. The class is to be taught by Eleanor Welborn, a local craftsman, who points out that mosaics is an ancient art that has had a very recent successful revival.

For further information phone the Carmel Adult School—MA 4-1821, Monday through Thursday evenings between 7:00 and 10:00 o'clock.

Fenton's Gas Station Headed For Salinas Court

"We are contemplating action for declaratory relief," Thomas Montgomery told the Pine Cone this morning. Montgomery is attorney for a group of citizens who are protesting the Carmel Planning commission's determination to allow Leslie Fenton to establish a gas station and build a parking garage at his city block-size shopping center on Ocean Avenue between Junipero and Mis-

Letters..

Carmel, California
P. O. Box 1141
March 1, 1960

Editor, Carmel Pine Cone:

If I might be accorded the indulgence of some space in your valued publication, I should like to record that after my address to the Council on the subject of Reverence last evening, I have been besieged with inquiries as to why all the fuss and concern for four gas pumps.

I should like to make it plain to all such inquirers that as to gas pumps per se, they are of no consequence to me whatsoever, a dozen of them more or less.

I am concerned for the integrity of Carmel's Charter of Liberties, the Preamble to the Zoning Ordinance now on the statute books as our basic law.

That law makes residential interest unequivocally superior to commercial interest, naturally anathema to all those who come to Carmel to make "a million dollars."

Now, in order to succeed with their "million dollar" project, the Carmel Plaza Corporation had to nullify the spirit and intent of that, our basic law.

This could be done by pressing for its repeal, or by indirection.

By indirection was easy so far as the Planning Commission was concerned with its membership weighted in favor of the encouragement of the building industry.

Not so easy with the Council, some of whose members still recognized their obligations to the residential interest. Even a larger problem with the citizenry, unaware of the implications.

As you well remember the seduction of the citizenry was attempted through the utilization of an issue of the Carmel Spectator with a presentation of the Plaza crowd as the people's great benefactors.

At times it has appeared that these measures of indirection proved quite successful as in a. Dazzling the Planning Commission with individual feelings of importance in having to pass on matters of so great magnitude. b. Imbuing the Council with an urge to associate themselves with big business, unconsciously to feel big themselves. c. Allaying the fears of the business community that by some necromancy not readily comprehended by less greedy onlookers, the business community would escape the inevitable depreciation of their business properties as always occurs upon the advent of big-business absentee ownership, and readily provable by a trip no further sion. This is an area of Carmel where gas stations are barred by the zoning ordinance and where Montgomery believes parking garages are also prohibited.

Purpose of taking the gas station-parking garage issue into superior court in Salinas, according to Montgomery, is "to have the judge declare what 'parking lots' and what 'accessory use' mean in the Carmel zoning ordinance."

The planning commission has twice approved the gas station under a technicality, by which they rule that the gas station is an "accessory use" to the parking garage. Following an appeal hearing a year ago, the city council overruled the planning commission, 3 to 2.

Monday night, during a hearing of a second appeal against the planning commission's second approval of the gas station as an accessory use, the council members clearly indicated that when the issue came to a vote, they would sustain the planning commission, 3 to 2. James Buffington, who voted against the gas station last year, showed by his comments that he would vote for it now.

But before the issue could come to a vote, Allen Knight who voted

Symphony Spring Concert Tuesday Sunset Auditorium

The Monterey County Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Earl Bernard Murray, will present the Spring concert of the 1959-60 season at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday night in Sunset Auditorium.

Featured on the program will be two song-cycles, in which the young Bay Area baritone, Edgar Jones, will be soloist. First of these will be Mahler's Songs of a Wayfarer. Composed in 1883, when Mahler was only 23, these four songs—set to Mahler's own text—reflect the Romantic tradition of the "poet-lover" and the melodic influence of folk songs.

Mr. Jones will also be heard in the rarely-performed Don Quichotte a Dulcinee of Ravel, three songs originally written as a sketch for a film based on Cervantes' stories. Composed in 1932, these songs were the last music completed by Ravel before his death.

Second half of Tuesday night's concert will consist of one of the greatest works in the symphonic repertory: the Symphony No. 5 in C minor, Beethoven. The concert will open with the Overture to The Secret Marriage by the 18th century Italian composer, Domenico Cimarosa.

A limited number of tickets are available at the Symphony Box office at the Browse-Around Record Shop, Carmel. MA 4-4125.

Today—14th Annual Carmel Invitational Tournament.

7:30—Pacific Grove vs. Fremont.
9:00—Carmel vs. Junipero.
March 4-5—Semi-finals and Finals of Carmel Tournament.

CARMEL HOOP TOURNAMENT STARTS TODAY

The 14th Annual Carmel Invitational Basketball Tournament gets underway this afternoon at 4:30 with Monterey and Gonzales quintets answering the referee's whistle for the first game. There are four games on tap today, four more tomorrow, and three on Saturday. Today's action has Monterey and Gonzales at 4:30; Gilroy taking on Gustine at 6:00 o'clock; Fremont and Pacific Grove at 7:30; and host Carmel tackling Junipero at 9:00 o'clock.

Monterey High, CCAL A-division champion, is favored to pick up most of the gold in this year's tournament with Gilroy and Carmel offering the most opposition. Bob Hagen's dangerous Gilroy five upset the Toreadores two weeks ago and could give Coach Ed Larsh's gang a rough tussle in the tournament. Since Gilroy and Monterey are in the same bracket, there is no chance for them to meet in the finals but they are practically certain to lock horns in Friday night's semi-final round. Gonzales, a fourth place finisher in the B-division of the CCAL, should be easy for the Toreadores in today's opener while the Mustangs should get over little Gustine without too much trouble. In the lower bracket, Fremont and Pacific Grove are pretty evenly matched with Fremont having a slight height advantage and the Breakers having the better outside shooters. Carmel figures to handle Junipero without too much trouble and is a good bet to reach the tournament finals.

PADRES EDGE BREAKERS IN OVERTIME

In one of the best basketball games of this season or any season, Carmel High's B-division champions clipped the hard-trying Pacific Grove quintet, 58 to 57, last Friday night at the Carmel pavilion. The game was touch and go from the opening whistle with the lead changing hands numerous times before the regulation time ran out with the scoreboard reading 53-53. In the overtime, Dave Fuller bagged a two-pointer shortly after the tip-off and the victorious Padres were ahead to stay.

With Barry Baskin and Bucky Boyns showing the way, the Breakers took the lead during the first half and had a 34-28 bulge at the intermission. However, Toby Edson took charge of the scoring for the Padres at the start of the second half and the Red and Gray wiped out the Breaker lead before the third quarter was finished. Edson pushed through four field goals to spark the Padre third-quarter.

Russ Wise was the big man on the boards and in the scoring department as he turned in his best game of the current season. The slender senior picked off 17 rebounds to lead both teams around the boards and he chipped in with 19 markers to take the scoring honors. Edson bagged 15 points for runner-up honors while Baskin and Boyns were high for Pacific Grove with 14 each.

The Pacific Grove game winds up league play for the Padres and ends league competition for seniors Russ Wise, Toby Edson, Dave Fuller, Fred Bucher, Phil O'Shea, Mike Cook, Jim Aitken, Pat Boyle, and Alan Dahlstrand. The pennant-winning Padres engage in tournament action this weekend in the Carmel Tournament and travel to Stanford University next weekend for the Peninsula Tournament.

Carmel's lightweight team was no match for the classy Breaker Babes and dropped a 54-24 decision to the lightweight champs. Pacific Grove has blazed through league competition with an unblemished record this season to post another lightweight championship for Coach Charley Howell. Doug McNeal and Dennis Hunt led the Wavelets in their easy win over the Little Padres, McNeal hitting for 21 points and Hunt getting 16. Ted Leidig pushed through 8 points to lead the Carmel lights in the scoring department.

Jim Brown and Scott Forbes led Carmel's unbeaten junior-varsity crew to an easy 46-35 win over the Pacific Grove reserves. The visitors made a game of it during the first half which ended, 26 to 22, but Coach Lawitzke's gang put on the pressure in the second half to win going away. Brown and Forbes each garnered 14 points to lead all scorers while Jim Thomas and Butch Johnson topped the Breaker point-getters with 13 each.

RUSS WISE AND TOBY EDSON ON ALL-LEAGUE HOOP SQUAD

Coast Counties Athletic League basketball coaches and sportswriters put their heads together Monday night and came up with two all-conference teams. Two Padres, Russ Wise and Toby Edson, were named on the first unit with Mike Draper earning a spot on the second team. Rounding out the first team were Barry Baskin, Pacific Grove; Steve Rodriguez, San Lorenzo Valley, and Erasmus Segundo, Gonzales. Along with Draper on the second unit were Jim Seaton and Jim Giacomozzi, King City; Ed Markin, Live Oak; and Bucky Boyns, Pacific Grove.

This makes the third time that Wise has been chosen on an all-league squad and the rangy senior was a unanimous choice on this year's team. Russ was a lightweight all-leager as a sophomore, made the varsity squad last season, and repeated this year. This is Edson's first year of varsity ball and his inspired play was instrumental in leading the Padres to the B-division championship. Mike Draper was the only junior selected on the two squads and the little playmaker should be a repeater next year.

MUSICIANS TO PLAY IN HONOR BAND SATURDAY

Six Carmel High School band members will play on Saturday evening with the Coast Counties' Honor Band in Watsonville. The concert will be in the Veterans' Memorial Hall at 8:00 o'clock.

Director of the 100 honor players from 11 high schools will be Edwin Kruth of San Francisco State College. The Watsonville

High School Choir will sing during the evening. Admission is 50 cents to cover expenses of the performance.

Carmel High School honor band members will be Carleton Macy, Oliver Shank, Lois Patnude, Bob Boyer, Carolyn Angell and Tani Bowman, according to John Farr, High School music instructor.

Art On The Peninsula

Three Carmel artists won in the popular voting at the Carmel Craft Studios' weekly art show on Friday. Maggie McCarthy took first place with an oil still life. An abstract oil by Skye was the second most popular picture.

A special children's award was given to Duncan Stitt for an oil desert scene.

Monterey Peninsula College and the Monterey Peninsula chapter of the American Federation of Arts are sponsoring an exhibition of American paintings at the college library, March 8-18. On Monday evening from 7:30-10:30 o'clock there will be an invitational preview of the 40 paintings from the Pfeiffer and Gallagher collections at the University of Arizona.

Unfortunately the painting by Maxine Albro of Carmel, one of the first five paintings purchased for the Pfeiffer collection, will not be included in the local show as was originally announced. Miss Albro's painting has been sent to another exhibition.

This show promises to be a well-deserved prestige-getter for the newly organized local chapter of the American Federation of Arts, which was responsible for its coming to the Peninsula.

Described by the college's publicity department as "the whole range of 'mainstream' American paintings for the last half century from John Sloan and Reginald Marsh to Arshile Gorky and Morris Graves it should be worth a trip over the hill.

Gallery hours will be 11:30 in the morning to 9:00 o'clock in the evening weekdays and from 1:00 to 6:00 o'clock Saturday and Sunday. No admission charge.

Post Commander Era Announces Legion's Birthday Observance

Carmel Post No. 512 of the American Legion will join in the nationwide observance of the Legion's 41st birthday March 15-17, Post Commander Fabian Y. Era announced today.

Commander Era reported that Carmel Post would join nearly 17,000 other posts throughout the United States and several foreign countries in the gigantic anniversary celebration of the world's largest veterans organization. The Legion has within its ranks more than 2.7 million member veterans of World War I, World War II and the Korean conflict. Its enrollment includes the President and Vice President of the United States, 31 Governors, 61 U. S. Senators, and 241 members of the House of Representatives.

The date of the celebration coincides with the date of the Paris Caucus in 1919, attended by some 1,000 weary disgruntled, homesick members of the AEF, who breathed life into the American Legion as it is known today.

Commander Era cited the growth in the organization's membership as an indication of public awareness and acceptance of the Legion's community service activities as well as its programs in the interest of the nation's war time veterans. He explained that Legion enrollment in 1959 reversed a six year trend by showing an appreciable gain over that of 1958 and that all indications pointed to an even bigger year for membership in 1960.

Although closely associated with the field of veterans affairs the American Legion is also concerned with other services which are of benefit to the general public, Commander Era said. Such services, he explained, include Junior baseball program, and extensive citizenship programs such as Boys Nation, Boys State, High School Oratorical Contest, Award Medals, etc.

Jean Ritchie

Mrs. Jean Knight Ritchie, 84, died on Sunday in her home at Hatton Road and Third Avenue after a long illness. She was the widow of Robert Wells Ritchie, sports writer and Hearst newspaper executive who died in 1941.

Mrs. Ritchie first came to Carmel 40 years ago. She was a magazine and newspaper writer during her early years and published several short stories. She was born in Tottenville, New York, on December 20, 1875.

During the years that her husband was in charge of Hearst interests in England, and a member of Hearst staffs in Washington, D.C. and San Francisco, Mrs. Ritchie knew many famous writers, stage and sports celebrities.

Because of ill health, Mr. Ritchie retired to Carmel. For 20 years after returning here to live Glenn S. Burchfield has been named assistant manager of the Carmel office of Crocker-Anglo Bank. He will replace E. H. Ewig who has been appointed manager of the new Crocker-Anglo Pebble Beach office.

Mr. Burchfield served as an officer in the Navy during the Korean conflict. He graduated from the University of California before entering Crocker-Anglo's administrative training program in San Francisco in 1957. The next year he was assigned as a credit analyst to the bank's 1 Sansome Street office in San Francisco and served in this capacity until his promotion to the Carmel office.

He is married and the father of three children. At present Mr. Burchfield is searching for a home for his family in this area.

permanently, Mrs. Ritchie had a knitting shop at the corner of Dolores Street and Seventh Avenue. She was keenly interested in world and local affairs and an avid reader.

Other than several cousins in Southern California and the East, Mrs. Ritchie leaves no close relatives.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday morning in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea with Dr. K. Fillmore Gray, pastor of the Church of the Wayfarer, officiating. Inurnment was in the family niche in Cemetery El Encinal Columbarium.

GLENN KEARNS APPOINTED TO ARTS COMMISSION

Glenn E. Kearns, new arts commissioner appointed by the council on Monday evening, has lived here for 12 years. He is associated with the architectural firm of Burde, Shaw and Kearns.

Mr. Kearns and his wife, Virginia, have two sons, Gary, ten years old and a pupil at River School, and Michael, three.

Before coming to Carmel, Mr. Kearns lived in Modesto, attended Modesto schools, and graduated from Modesto Junior College. He is a member of the Monterey County Citizens Planning Committee and has been active in little theater productions on the Peninsula.

"I am interested in what the arts commission is trying to do," Mr. Kearns says referring to his appointment.

no to the gas station last time and intended to do so again, proposed that the issue be put on the ballot as an "advisory" question so the council could know what were the wishes of the citizens. Gunnar Norberg, another anti-gas station councilman, put the motion. City Clerk Lawrence Rose protested it was too late to put an advisory question on the April municipal election ballot. It would have to be a special election. City Attorney John Morse said he didn't see how a "quasi-judicial" matter could legally be referred to the voters. Knight insisted. "Lots of matters have been referred to the voters in the form of advisory question."

Morse, having a lawyer's nightmare, begged them to change their motion. Continue the hearing and instruct him to find out if such a procedure is "legally feasible" he urged. Norberg changed the motion. The Mayor called for a vote on the motion, sure it would be defeated. He had two votes, Buffington's and Tom May's for the gas station. One could reasonably suppose he'd have their votes to quash the go-to-the-people move.

But May is running for re-election. Going-to-the-people must have sounded right to him. He voted yes. The hearing adjourned "continued" until the attorney could research the legal feasibility of putting the appeal to the council against the ruling of the planning commission as an advisory question on a special election ballot.

Morse told the Pine Cone this morning he is "90 percent sure" it can't be done. When the council meets Wednesday night he will have finished his "research" and report.

Meanwhile, Knight's delaying action may have spared the council the embarrassment of having voted to sustain the planning commission's ruling which superior court may find illegal.

pearance that its standards must be guarded by an alert citizenry. Once the non-conforming billboards are removed, the highways through that county will be models of natural beauty and tourist appeal.

Marin County, long a pioneer in roadside protection, has been having difficulties also over the matter of removing non-conforming billboards. They have had a case in court, the final judgment not yet rendered.

Riverside County, its new freeways commanding fine views of mountains, desert and agricultural land, is engaged in study of zoning plans with a view to limiting roadside uses. The Riverside Enterprise and many civic groups are rallying to the support of good controls.

Sonoma County's "Scenic Highways," designated as such on an interim basis, are up for review in a series of public hearings. Chiefly at stake are special billboard restrictions applied to the highways classed as "scenic." We urge Sonoma County residents to watch their local papers for notices of these hearings; attend and speak up.

Santa Cruz County's Planning Commission and Supervisors are studying a master plan for the county. One of its outstanding features is the provision for extensive green belt areas.

San Mateo County has approved some sound green belt zoning, as part of the new master plan. The development of public concern and support for green belts and parks in this county was the chief function of the Citizens' Council over a period of several years.

Contra Costa County's official survey of roadside development needs, and the committee's recommendations of policy and plans, deserve special mention as a document well worth studying. Roadside planting—practical, appropriate and geared to local needs—gets high priority. The county regularly allocates 1% of its road and highway funds to roadside development.

City Forest Census Shows 17,200 Trees In UC At Davis Report

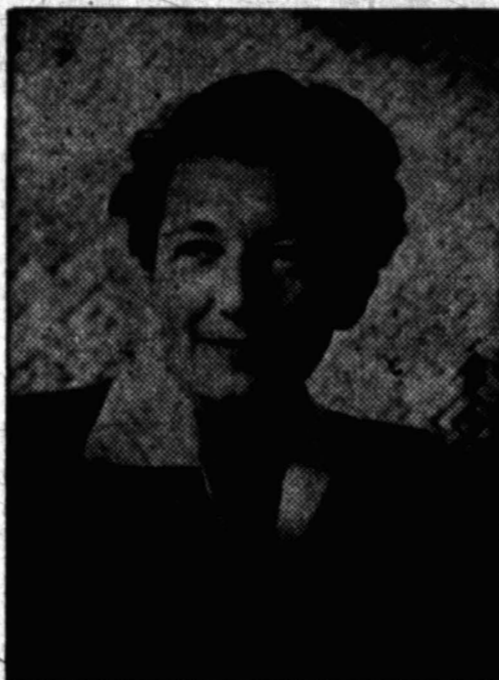

Carmel's forest has 17,200 trees, according to the estimate presented to the Forest Commission on Tuesday evening by City Clerk Larry Rose and Street Superintendent William Askew, Jr.

The two city officials arrived at this figure by estimating 17 trees per acre in Carmel. The estimate of the forest was prepared for a report requested by the Department of Landscape Horticulture at the University of California at Davis.

The university is making a survey of trees in California cities "to improve the selection and maintenance of street trees." The report was sent by the department of landscape horticulture to the city in December and referred to the forestry commission on January 6. The commission asked Mr. Rose and Mr. Askew to prepare the information that the commission ratified Tuesday night.

The breakdown of the 17,200 trees on the 560 acres within the city limits is as follows: Monterey pine, 10,575; coast oak, 4,000; acacias of various kinds, 2,500; cypress, 150; maples, 50.

These trees are situated; 11,500 on private property; 5,800 along city-owned streets; 200 in public parks. The average age of the pines the cypress is 75 years; oaks unknown; Average height of pines is 90-120 feet; oaks 45 feet. The lowest density of trees is in the central business district; the highest density in the Eighty Acres and the northeast quarter of town.

Miss Mildred Capron, film-lecturer in the field of photography, will show a colored movie, Deep Roots in the Chesapeake, for members of the Carmel Woman's Club on Monday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock.

Forest commissioners elected Charles Myrick, chairman; Robert Strum, vice chairman. Larry Rose is secretary. Herbert Blanks, elected chairman of the planning commission last week, resigned from the forest commission.

Other business of the forest commission on Tuesday night was to recommend to the city council that a pine be planted at Fifth and Mission, another pine on Twelfth between Camino Real and San Antonio. These plantings were suggested to the commission by Francis Whitaker.

Commissioners also recommended that pavement be removed from around oak trees at Ocean and Sixth and Junipero and Fifth. This will allow more surface tree feeding.

A budget for Carmel's tree program was also discussed. Money for planting new trees, treating diseased trees and removing dead trees was included in this study which was carried over to the April meeting.

LADY'S NOT FOR BURNING

The Lady's Not For Burning, Christopher Fry's fanciful comedy concerning superstition, witchcraft and romance, in the fifteenth century, opens tonight for a four-week run at The Studio Theatre in Carmel. Performances will be given each weekend Thursday through Sunday with curtain time at 8:30 o'clock each evening.

Featured in the production which is under the direction of Richard Bailey are Errol Allan and Maria Hallsted, who are cast as Thomas Mendip and Jennet Jourdemayne, roles created originally by Sir John Gielgud and Pamela Brown. Bailey, in addition to directing the production, will also appear as Nicholas Devize. Other featured roles in the play are being handled by Joyce Hahn as Alison Eliot, Cliff Berry as Richard, Sue Peoples as Margaret, Al Holliday as Hebble Tyson, Cliff Anderson as Tappercoom, Phil Berger as Humphrey, Pat Ryan as the Chaplain, and Jim Whittemore as Skippis.

Henri Temianka's Little Symphony To Play In Grove

The Temianka Little Symphony will play on Monday evening at the Pacific Grove High School Auditorium under the auspices of the Monterey Peninsula Concert Association. It is a combination of distinguished artists in a highly original program. The ensemble consists of 18 virtuoso performers, including many outstanding young soloists from all over the United States.

Henri Temianka, conductor and violin soloist, co-founder of the Paganini Quartet, formed the Little Symphony to present the rich repertory of music composed for small orchestra, heretofore much neglected because it lies beyond the resources of the string quartet, yet not demanding the resources of the full symphony.

One of the group's distinctions is its great instrumental variety, including a piano duo, a wide range of percussion instruments, clarinettist and flutist, and a group of strings.

Mr. Temianka and members of the Paganini quartet at one time had their headquarters at Carmel Highlands and lived in the former Wickham studio, now the new fire house. Mr. Temianka is a life member of the Monterey County Symphony Association.

WORLD DAY OF PRAYER OBSERVANCE TOMORROW IN PACIFIC GROVE

The World Day of Prayer will be held tomorrow at the First Methodist Church in Pacific Grove, beginning at 12:30 o'clock. After a worship service led by Mrs. George Lutz, the special program prepared by women of the United Church of Canada for use throughout the world will be led by Mrs. Arthur Reum and Mrs. Douglas Dechard. Music will be directed by Mrs. Carol Turner.

On March 11, the United Church Women of this area will hold an Area Training Institute at the United Presbyterian Church at 830 Padre Drive in Salinas at 1:00 o'clock, with Mrs. Paul Burns, the area chairman, in charge. All church women are invited to attend.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ANSWERS TWO CALLS THIS WEEK

Carmel Volunteer Fire Department members answered an ambulance and a fire call this week.

Sunday morning at 7:31 o'clock the Red Cross Ambulance went to Carmel Mission on a medical emergency call and took Joseph Miller of Carmel, to the Peninsula Community Hospital Annex.

Tuesday afternoon at 12:50 o'clock 22 firemen with equipment answered a general alarm to extinguish a fire in the home on Santa Rita Street between First and Second Avenues occupied by Mrs. Bobby DeChand.

Wilderness Of The West

A Monthly Column
by C. Edward Graves

12. Sierra Club Considers Coast Highway

The Sierra Club, nation-wide conservation organization with headquarters in California, has within the last year enlarged and beautified its monthly Bulletin, using a good deal of color in its illustrations. Membership is open to all conservationists. The January, 1960, issue is of special interest to Monterey Peninsula conservationists.

The club is now concentrating some of its attention on the preservation of the natural beauty of the Coast Highway. In this issue of its Bulletin there is a full-page spread on this subject, with two photographs of the Carmel Hill Interchange, before and now, and one of the Mendocino coast where erosion is a big problem. The article is headed: "Man Becomes Major Geological Force." Following is the introductory paragraph:

"It is becoming rapidly apparent that automobiles are costing Americans far more than the monthly payments. The top of Carmel Hill shows why some people think the god of highways, Concretus, has decided to let man play the role of Laocoon. California State Highway 1, in Mendocino County, shows why concern is growing for our coasts, and why member Fred Farr hopes that the superb reach south of Carmel will fare better, as pointed out editorially in the San Francisco Chronicle."

Then follows the editorial in question—an excellent statement from the conservationists' viewpoint. In this issue of the Bulletin there is also a striking two-page spread entitled, "The Tragedy of Bull Creek." The sub-heading reads: "Destructive forces set in motion by improper land use are far-reaching . . . and do not respect State Park boundaries. Now they are ravaging Rockefeller Forest (in Bull Creek State Park), where grow the tallest trees known on earth."

I have a great personal interest in what has happened there, because our family camped there for a week in the summer of 1924 before it was made a State Park. It was one of the most moving experiences of my life and it makes me very sad to look at the photographs in the Sierra Club Bulletin and see the changes that have taken place from improper logging practices.

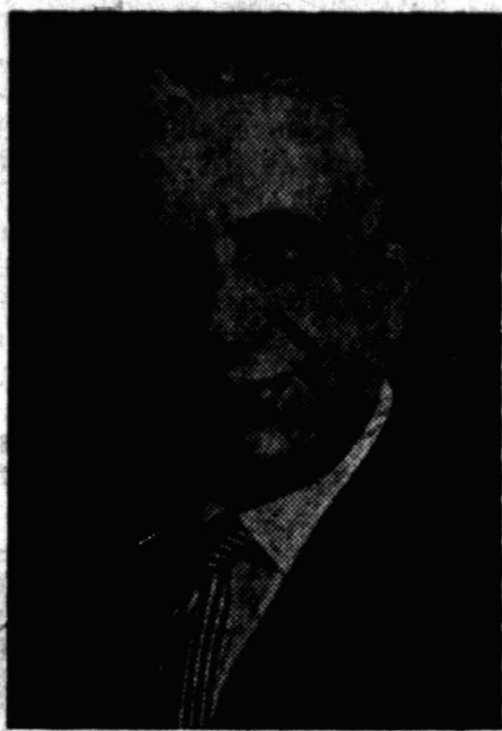

The first photograph is headed: "Bull Creek before logging began . . . a gentle unspoiled stream, 60 feet at its widest, which meandered through virgin woods and forests of exceptional delight."

The second photograph is headed: "Bull Creek today, a raging torrent as much as 300 feet wide in the rainy season. It carries a devastating load of debris to destroy everything in its path."

The article goes on to say: "Can these conditions be changed? The Division (of Beaches and Parks) believes so, and has come forth with a bold, far-sighted proposal—to acquire the whole Bull Creek Basin, approximately 18,000 acres of logged-over land adjacent to Humboldt Redwoods State Park. The Division would then institute control of the entire watershed, reforestation where possible, building brush check dams and water-breaks to divert the present run-offs, and encourage natural regeneration. The cost is estimated at $1,500,000, of which $230,000 is now available in State funds."

All of this, because "the logging practices that resulted in this enormous 'slump' in the upper watershed of Bull Creek were common practice a hundred years ago. And they are still going on today."

Why?

How scientific understanding of divine law brings healing and protection will be the topic of a public lecture on Christian Science to be given here March 15, 1960 by Neil H. Bowles of Atlanta, Georgia.

Mr. Bowles, a member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, will speak in the church edifice Monte Verde at Sixth Street at 8:00 o'clock in the evening under the auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Carmel. Marshalls, Living Representatives Of What Is Meant By Elusive Word

By RAYLYN PENNY

An evening with the Marshalls, Herta and David, as presented last Sunday by The Studio Theatre, turned out to be a time not half long enough to spend in such felicitous company.

This pair of new Carmelites blends the arts of troubadour and monologist with fine results. Their metier is a new-old something called "folk theater." And if there ever was a fine line demarking our heritage of folk music from the work of our best folk poets, the Marshalls have already erased it.

The mostly Anglo-Saxon folk songs sung with tenderness and skill by Herta were about 90 percent familiar to many in an audience generously sprinkled with amateur singers and guitarists. She gave us Pretty Saro, The Logger Lover, The Troubadour Song and, in duet with David, The Waggoner's Lad, Buffalo Boy, Soldier, Soldier and others, some heard seldom even in these times of new popularity for old folk tunes. She sang one of her own devising.

There were some surprises too: David's rendition of Stephen Vincent Benet, Herta's interpretation of a handful of Spoon River ladies written into our culture by Edgar Lee Masters and her musical adaptation of some Tennessee Williams poetry ("I'm a potato ain't been mashed—I'm a check that ain't been cashed...")

The program culminated in Carl Sandburg's poetry interlaced with a few of his own favorite numbers out of his American Songbag, "Wanderin'," for instance, which the poet himself labeled "a lyric of tough days." By going-home time, the Marshalls had progressed from Dorothy Parker to Woodie Guthrie, an odd journey to hear of perhaps, but a good one to make.

These people know their folk songs and poets. They also know their dramatics. They can prick the spine and tickle the ribs and in a wink spill tears, but their charm really lies in their particular amalgam of the urban and the pastoral, the earthy and the polished. This, along with their quiet friendliness convinces us they are themselves living representatives of what is meant by that elusive word "folk."

CARMEL FOUNDATION NOTES

The annual meeting of the Carmel Foundation will be on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Parish House of All Saints' Episcopal Church. Tea at Town House will follow the meeting.

Invitations have a silk screen print of Town House on the front, the work of Carmel Foundation craftsmen.

Carmel Foundation maintains Town House, a meeting place for senior citizens in this community. A varied program provides daily activity for the membership.

Mabel H. Pedder

Mrs. Mabel H. Pedder died on Sunday in a local hospital after an extended illness. She had lived in Carmel for 16 years. Her home was at Santa Lucia and Lincoln Streets. She was the widow of Stanley Pedder, a retired attorney active in Carmel community affairs who died in 1955.

Mrs. Pedder was born in London on January 15, 1882. She was married in New York in 1906. The following year she and her husband moved to San Francisco where Mr. Pedder practised law until he retired as senior partner in the law firm of Pedder, Ferguson and Pedder.

After moving to Carmel Mrs. Pedder was active in civic and community affairs. She was a member of the Monterey Peninsula League of Women Voters.

Survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Ferguson of Berkeley; three sons, John Pedder and Robert Pedder of Orinda and Richard Pedder of Sacramento; eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Private funeral services were held on Monday in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea.

Friends wishing to honor the memory of Mrs. Pedder may do so in the form of donations to the American Friends Service Committee, 1837 Sutter Street, San Francisco.

MEADOW LARKS AND SNOW

I watched the snowflakes flutter down
In merry gusts of March delight,
They go as petals drifting—falling
From apple trees of fragile white.
The snowflakes touch the singing river
Where pale blue violets slumber still,
I watch the golden fading sunset
Climb beyond a crystal hill,
Of ice and sleet and snow embedded
Of silver sheen and dusky blue—
A studded hill of crystal jewels
Where April will be coming through—
With meadow larks in trilling wonder
When hills will seem to burst apart,
As songs of glory swell the valley
With music only larks impart!

FOG BOUND

It came in the night
A mysterious sea which submerged my house
Leaving the room an island.
Beaded clothes lines held the banks together
Closing me in.
Kelp-wet grass stood ashen cold,
Shrubs drooped with tears too heavy to shed.
There was no sound,
The drama of the day was stilled
Mummers muted behind a formless curtain.
Nothing moved except my heart
Weighted with latent sorrow.
Thoughts were dull
Smothered in grey folds where none may enter.
Alone,
Fog bound.

FROM A
LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg
With the return of the rains, it looks as though we shall have more good reading weather. Let's talk about a few good new non-fiction works worthy of tempting you to spend a few more evenings before the fire with an interesting book, preferably one of these.

The Ten Pains of Death is the new one from the pen of Gavin Maxwell who wrote People of the Reeds. This one is the story of the people of Sicily, their lives and customs, their dreadful poverty, their officials who do not care, the Mafia, the criminals from other countries who settle in Sicily.

A glance through Good Housekeeping's Complete Book of Needlecraft shows plainly that the term needlecraft embraces everything from making a simple buttonhole to doing intricate embroidery, weaving, and making rugs. If you do it with a needle, it's in this book.

Two books on France, one a history in short form edited by John Jackson but actually written by several authorities in the field, the other a part of the Ogrizek series of books on the various countries of the world and entitled France, a Portrait in Color. There are 271 illustrations in color, very nice ones, too, which include many small maps to show you exactly where you are or where you are heading. This Ogrizek book might be a good one to take with you on a first trip through France, but if you do that, remember to buy your own copy. Our copy is for the stay-at-homes.

The rock paintings of the Sahara are the subject of the Tassili Frescoes by Henri Lhote. In 1956 the author led a party of explorers into the Central Sahara and there discovered these beautiful rock paintings, believed to be over 8,000 years old. Reproduced in this book are many delicately beautiful drawings and paintings. Primitive art by primitive people and worthy of preservation.

Those of you who enjoyed A Passion for Books, by Lawrence Clark Powell, will welcome his newest one entitled Books in My Baggage. Like the earlier work, this is a collection of essays on reading, book collecting, authors, and libraries.

Another book which may have its acceptance assured by the activity of its author is The Joy of Music by Leonard Bernstein. The medium of television has made Bernstein a familiar face and name to millions of Americans. He enjoys all music from long-hair to crew cut, and his book shows him enjoying it and helping you to do the same.

We are suffering from a recurring ailment which seems to cause reference books to disappear, sometimes to reappear, sometimes not. Right now we are lacking volume one of both the Americana and the Britannica. If you know where they are, bring them back. Sometimes I think that everyone who reads this column is honest because such appeals seldom bear fruit in returned books. No use having a defeatist attitude.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

How the power of God brings man protection and strength will be brought out in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Man" which will be read at Christian Science services this Sunday.

"The spiritual relationship of God and the man of His creating will be emphasized in the Scriptural readings which include this verse: 'The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? the Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?' (Psalms 27:1).

Among the correlative passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is the following: "Nothing but the power of Truth can prevent the fear of error, and prove man's dominion over error" (380:19).

The Golden Text is from Genesis (1:27): "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him."

Chappell-Stanley Wedding

Mrs. Pauline Louise Chappell and Frederick S. Stanley were married on February 25 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Tostevin. Judge Richard Eldred performed the ceremony in front of the fireplace in the living room. Lighted candles in sconces and an arrangement of pussywillows, iris and daffodils decorated the mantelpiece. Sprays of pink plum blossoms were placed about the room, also on the buffet in the dining room, and white camellias flecked with pink surrounded the pink and white iced wedding cake on the dining table.

The bride was given in marriage by Leon Konigshofer of Alameda. She wore a gold silk shantung suit and carried a spray of brown and green orchids. Her attendant was her daughter, Kim, dressed in a pale green polished cotton frock and holding a nosegay bouquet of daffodils.

Kenneth Bennett was best man for the groom.

Wedding guests were the bride's son, Douglas, and the groom's four children, Skee, Susan, Robin and Steven Stanley, also the bride's mother, Mrs. Amy Geraghty of San Francisco, the groom's mother, Mrs. Carl Stanley of Pebble Beach, his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ashton Stanley of Pebble Beach, Mrs. Kenneth Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Colden Whitman, Dr. and Mrs. Harry Bullard, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dormody, Mr. and Mrs. H. William Monroe, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Williams, Mr. and Mrs. John Coyle, Mr. and Mrs. Jon Konigshofer and Mrs. Margaret Hanson.

The bride and groom are honeymooning at Lahaina Bay on the Island of Maui in Hawaii. They will return in a week's time and occupy the bride's home in the Country Club area until they can find a house in Carmel.

Wedding At The Wayfarer

Betty Ann Leuck of Sepulveda decided that she would be married in Carmel on one of her many visits here as the guest of her uncle, Dr. Reuben John. On February 27 her wish became a reality when she married Woody Killam of Bakersfield in the Church of the Wayfarer. The 7:00 o'clock candle-light ceremony was performed by the Reverend Zimmer of Sepulveda. The bridal couple knelt at the altar during the singing of the Lord's Prayer.

Betty was given in marriage by a long-time family friend, Lawrence Christoffersen. Her white lace ballerina-length gown had a hoop skirt. A short veil covered her head and she carried a white Bible from which fell a cascade of white freesia and white rosebuds centered with butterfly orchids.

She was attended by Mrs. William Walker of Granada Hills in a beige lace dress with a flared overskirt. Lavender chrysanthemums and blue orchid iris formed her bouquet.

Claudia Walker was flowergirl. Best man was the groom's brother, John Killam.

Fifty guests joined the bride and groom for a smorgasbord at the Cypress West Hotel following the ceremony. Carnations, stock and ferns decorated the table and were placed around the tiered wedding cake.

The wedding party and 30 guests went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Turner, following the smorgasbord. Movies of the bride and groom and bridal party were taken. Then the bride changed to a bright blue wool suit with a rolled cape collar and black accessories before leaving with the groom on a honeymoon which will include a visit to the groom's parents in Springfield, Illinois.

Second Girl In Cleary Family

Cheryl Anne Cleary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cleary, was born at the Peninsula Community Hospital on February 17. Her birth weight was seven pounds, 12 ounces.

Cheryl has a brother, Glen, who will be four years old next month, and a sister, Kim, who will be two in May. Until Kim's birth there had been no girls born in the Cleary family for 138 years. Now there are two.

Grandparents of the new baby are Colonel and Mrs. A. W. Cleary of Carmel and Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Hogan of New York.

Priscilla Enjoys Her Work

Priscilla Clark, a last June graduate of Stanford University, gives enthusiastic reports to her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Howard Clark, about her job with the State Department in San Francisco. She is working at the reception center for foreign visitors as receptionist for Mrs. Ambrose Diehl, director of the center.

All foreign-visitors in this country who visit the San Francisco area receive their programs from Mrs. Diehl's office when they call at the reception center in the Federal Building, and Priscilla meets them.

Third utilities request is from the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company which wants permission to relocate a pole and anchor at Ocean Avenue and Junipero Street. The city council previously suggested that P. T. and T. remove the installation from the intersection of these streets. P. T. and T. would like to move it 14 feet west on Ocean Avenue.

Brayton Wilbur, through Smith Tree Service, requests that he may trim a small city cypress on the Ocean side of Scenic Drive at Twelfth Avenue.

At the northwest corner of Santa Fe and Second, as the roadway turns the corner, it appears to be located on private property. The council will survey this situation. If true, the city may take adverse possession of the property. The present owner wishes to enclose the property with a fence which might be in the street, otherwise.

The council will also look at a large pine in front of the Tradewinds Motel at Mission and Third. Owners of the motel do not request that the tree be removed, but, on the advice of their insurance carriers, wish to point out to the city that the condition of the tree is considered dangerous by the insurance company.

Colonel and Mrs. Osborne bought a house here during World War II. They returned to live after Colonel Osborne retired in 1953. All their children have been students at Carmel High School. Their older son, Robert Roy, is a teaching brother, studying for the Marianist priesthood. He is on the faculty of Don Bosco High School in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. The Osborne's daughter, Mary, returned to Carmel this year after completing college and is teaching third grade at River School.

away than one to Palo Alto and vicinity at this time.

So successful have these measures designed for the nullification of our Code heritage become, that all too many of our people are thinking in terms of Code-intent reversal, of making Carmel subservient to commercial considerations. Certain it is that in this world one "Cannot serve God and Mammon." We shall eventually have to serve business, or business will have to serve us (residents.) It is as simple as that, and the people of Carmel will have to choose which. Their Masters may not be trusted. That's why I took the time to review the subject of reverence for our Constitution, the Preamble to Zoning Ordinance. It was significant that only part of the Council could understand it.

Thanks,

C. A. DeCamp.

Editor, The Pine Cone:

There seems to be some confusion among subscribers to the Carmel Television Cable as to what actually is involved in the vote they are about to make. Perhaps I can clarify the matter somewhat.

Ballots were mailed on February 29 by M.P.-T.V., with which its subscribers are to vote for one of three stations to take over the channel three spot on the cable, previously occupied by KNTV, San Jose.

Let's examine each station in turn. KTVU, channel two, the San Francisco-Oakland independent station, carries—practically without exception—the network and syndicated programs also available on our two local stations. These include such shows as "People Are Funny," "G-E College Bowl," "Seven League Boots," and "Our Miss Brooks." The station's movies, too, are often seen on the local stations; the only unique aspect of the channel-two station's programming is its sports events. These have been—and will continue to be—presented on the cable's channel three, pre-empting the regularly shown station there.

KNTV, channel 11, the second station offered in the vote, is one of our two "local" stations. Anyone who invests from four to eleven dollars for a sensitive channel 11 antenna can receive it directly, since its 123,000-watt transmitter is located near Santa Cruz. It generally duplicates programming available on the San Francisco network stations.

The last station, KQED, channel 9, is the only station now presenting programming completely unduplicated on other stations now on the cable, it is called a "non-commercial educational" station, but it is much more than that. It shows public affairs programs, the only news commentator now seen on any TV station in Central California, non-gory/non-cartoon children's programs, and offbeat entertainment, in addition to its fine educational programs, which encompass language, mathematics, driver education, astronomy—sometimes going into sports, and other popular topics. Further, KQED doesn't broadcast on weekends, in which time KTVU could be carried. Most of the sports events on this channel-two station are on Saturday and Sunday.

I would like then, to urge that all subscribers vote KQED, channel 9, for the channel three position on the "cable."

Yours,

Eric G. Norberg.

Editor's Note:

Thank you Eric, for the excellent analysis. I join you in urging TV Cable subscribers to vote for Channel 9—with a switch to Channel 2 for week-end sports. —W.C.

Editor, The Pine Cone:

The group of people meeting in the M. DeNeale Morgan Studio to discuss candidates for the Carmel City Council decided last night to give the group the name "Klenke Committee for Carmel," having had previous publicity identified with my name.

The Committee would like it known that they are officially endorsing Robert Strum as their candidate because he has chosen the purpose clause of the zoning ordinance as his platform, which states that Carmel must be maintained as "primarily, essentially, and predominantly a residential city wherein business and commerce have in the past, are now, and are proposed to be in the future, subordinate to its residential character."

Editor of the Pine Cone:

Next week has been set aside for somebody as Tree Planting Week. Probably nothing of an organized nature will be done about it in Carmel where everybody talks about trees and few people do anything about them. Our existing pines are dying of old age and disease and being cut down to make room for houses and gardens at an alarming rate. Tree planting seminar groups from Stanford University and the University of California. Local organizations, such as the Symphony Association might also use these premises. No rent will be charged, he said.

The need for meeting places of this type, Mr. Allamprese explained, had been pointed out to him by members of the faculties of both universities. Also, last week Democratic state delegates at Highlands Inn told him that private meeting places in addition to accommodations at the Inn were needed. Mr. Allamprese is treasurer of the State Democratic Committee.

Hal Lindquist, planner for Mr. Allamprese, explained the preliminary layout of the Fern Canyon subdivision to the Highlands Association.

County road requirements of 60 feet right of way, three feet concrete gutters on each side of a 24 feet roadway with three feet shoulders must be provided in the subdivision. Grades along the steep slopes of the canyon must conform to county regulations, he emphasized.

These requirements disturbed Highlands resident Will Shaw. "Does it make sense to scar the hills and create drainage problems?" he asked Mr. Lindquist after stating that existing roadways in the Highlands area were 20-30 feet wide and followed natural contours. Entrances from the narrow roads to the wide subdivisions roadways would also be a problem, Mr. Shaw said.

Mr. Allamprese interjected that he would like help in making road plans. Mr. Lindquist observed that the county road requirements re-by the City has been of some help and should certainly continue. It could also be handled in a somewhat more imaginative manner, as far as spacing and location of trees is concerned.

I very much doubt whether the pine trees planted in holes along the pavement in the business district will ever grow to maturity. The conditions are probably too unnatural. The trees planted beside the streets in the residential section could be more effective if their spacing and alignment were more casual.

Our town began as a place where a few people lived among a great many trees. It has become one in which a few trees will soon be fighting a losing battle to live among a great many people. Unless a good many citizens not only encourage the city officials to continue and broaden the planting program, but also take part in it by planting pines on their own property, all of the forest atmosphere will disappear in a very short few years. Dr. Talcott Bates has set a fine example on his Jack's Peak property which some of us could emulate in a small way. If you grow pines you must sacrifice lawns, flowers, and a lot of water, but the results could be very worthwhile—and there are a great many very beautiful garden shrubs and flowers which grow very well under pines. As soon as one of my seven large pines dies, I intend to replace it.

move scenic values and stated, "If this body (Highlands Association) feels as a group we can keep down the width of the roads and still provide safe and adequate roadway, we will welcome your help."

Mr. Allamprese hastened to add that modifying the county road requirements met with his approval, as the lots in the subdivision would be better without the wide and graded roads and construction of the roads would be cheaper.

Francis Heisler was concerned whether the necessary bulldozing to create building sites in the steep terrain would mean that natural growth in Fern canyon would be wantonly destroyed and trees felled. Mr. Lindquist assured him that the architectural control board of the subdivision would endeavor to retain as many trees as possible as they are an asset to a subdivision.

In answer to a previous question of Mr. Heisler's concerning provisions for sewage in the subdivision, Mr. Lindquist said all county health department regulations would be met in this respect.

Mrs. Russell Williams wanted to know if Mr. Allamprese planned to build houses in the subdivision. "Only if necessary to set the tone of the development in order to elevate the price of lots," Mr. Allamprese replied.

Mrs. Williams also asked if Mr. Allamprese would wait to develop his property until the Highlands land study for the coast master plan was formulated.

"I am a land merchant," Mr. Allamprese answered, "you are asking me to wait an indefinite time. If you will meet me in ten days time I will be happy to work with you."

Prior to this he had accepted the suggestion of Mr. Heisler that he become a member of the Highlands land study group or send a qualified representative to meetings.

Association president William K. Stewart closed the discussion by saying that cooperation between Mr. Allamprese and the land study committee was an example of how help of a group working with an owner might benefit the Highlands community.

Mr. Allamprese, with Mr. Lindquist and the salesman and advertising man for the subdivision left to fly back to Fresno after Mr. Lindquist promised that a tentative detailed map of the Fern Canyon subdivision will be ready in two weeks in time to present to the County Planning Commission on March 29.

Association members then heard Mr. Heisler, chairman of a committee to redraft the group's constitution, define membership boundaries as those coexistent with the Highlands Fire District.

Mr. Heisler also reported that the land study group had met with Nathaniel Owings of Big Sur who is preparing the coast master plan. Mr. Owings suggested Highlands plans should be part of the master plan and not submitted separately. Therefore Mr. Heisler informed association members, the land study committee would request the county planning commission on March 8 to continue, if possible, consideration of the Campbell plan for development of eight miles of land along the coast road below the Highland until the master plan is completed.

"We must fight for a continuance," Mr. Heisler added and urged all Highland residents to support the committee at the planning commission meeting.

Lastly, Mr. Heisler, reported for the committee responsible for re-seeding Pine Canyon after last fall's fire. Helicopters sowed seeds over the devastated area before the rains.

"The grass is growing, the slopes are green, there are no slides," Mr. Heisler declared the meeting closed with joyous applause.
